

CASE STUDY NO-1

TITLE: MEETING YOUR NEW BOSS

You have just arrived at the ABC Corporation for a job interview. This job looks like an ideal situation for you. Your title would be Director and you would work directly for the Vice President who has now requested a private interview with you as you have not yet met. You arrived on time and were greeted by the VP's assistant, who apologised and said that there would be a delay. The VP was called into an unexpected but important conference and will be there for at least another 15 minutes. In the meantime, the assistant informs you that you are most welcome to wait in the VP's office.

You enter the private office. You know you will be alone here for at least 15 minutes. You look around the room, naturally curious about the person you may be working for

The office is carpeted in light grey. You sit in one of two emerald green club chairs to the left of the doorway. Between the chairs is a low glass table on which there are a number of magazines – recent editions of Time (one in French) and Newsweek, a copy each of Sports Illustrated, Maximum PC, Ebony, People and Working Mother. On the wall behind you are framed photos of scenery in exotic places. A ficus tree in a ceramic planter sits in a corner of the room. The tree is shedding its leaves.

There is a window on the far wall, and you walk over to look out. Directly in front of the window is a sofa covered in a green and beige stripe. Two woven cotton pillows lay against the back of the couch. The draperies at the window are a cream woven material with a beige stripe. The view from the window is pleasant – some small shops bordering a park.

On a table adjacent to the couch are a few carry out menus – one from a sandwich place (O'Briens), another from an upscale city restaurant and one from the Hooters from Clark Quay. There are also a few framed photos – one of a pair of small children, another of an attractive woman sitting on a boat in swimming attire.

As you walk back to your chair, your glance wanders to the VP's desk. There is a flat screen computer monitor, a multi-line phone and several stacks of papers. You recognize a paper copy of your resume on the top of one of the stacks and notice that your date of graduation is marked in felt tipped pen with a 2-digit number and a pair of question marks next to it.

Since the VP may return at any moment, you return to the green club chair to wait.

-----The End-----

Instruction: Please read the article .Max 5 Min .Record your Time

Then Answer the following question Sheet

Purpose : Power of Observation, Memory power .Reading Speed and understanding ,interpretation.

Q 1: New Boss is Gent or Ladies? Why? What is your logic behind your answer?

Your Answer:

Q 2: New Boss/ Interviewer is Veg or non-vegetarian? What is your logic behind your answer?

Your Answer:

Q 3: Which outsider food interviewer prefers?

Options: ① Sandwich ② Pizza ③ Pasta ④ Noodles

Your Answer:

Q 4: Who is going to take your interview?

Options: ① Vice President ② Director

Your Answer:

Q 5: What is the gender of interviewers? What is the logic behind it or evidence & assumption behind your conclusion?

Options: ① Lady (Married) ② Woman (Unmarried) ③ Widow ④ Male

Your Answer:

Q 6: Are the interviewers having kids/small children or grown/bachelor?Logic?

Q 7: How many chairs were there in the room?

Options: 1 2

3

Your Answer:

Q 8: What is the background of interviewer .He/She belongs to which country?

Options: 1 Caribbean countries

2 Europe

3 America

Your Answer with logic:

Q 9: Which Category He/She belongs to?

Options: 1 White Skin people 2 Black Skin people

Your Answer with logic:

Q 10: What was your announced waiting time at that room? How many minutes you are requested to wait?

Options: 1 5 min 2 10 min 3 15 min 4 20 min

Your Answer:

Q 11: Job interview was conducted by which company?

Options: 1 XYZ Company Ltd. 2 ABC Corporation. 3 ABC Company Ltd. 4 ABC Incorporation.

Your Answer:

Q 12: What was the colour of carpet in the room?

Options:

- ① Brown
- ② Dark Grey
- ③ Light Grey
- ④ Light Brown

Your Answer:

Q 13: What was the colour of chair you were sitting on?

- ① Green
- ② Brown
- ③ Grey
- ④ Light Grey

Your Answer:

Q 14: What is the mother tongue of interviewers?

- ① French
- ② Spanish
- ③ English
- ④ Portuguese

Your Answer:

Meet Your New Boss

WorkSheet

Evidence	Assumption	Conclusion